

YOUR MAGAZINE FOR WHERE YOU LIVE...

High Summer ...

... and many of us are off on holidays.

However, there is still plenty to keep you entertained, even if you're not off on holidays. There is a family fun day at the Broughton Arms on Saturday the 31st August, Scholar Green will be holding its Annual Summer Produce Show on Saturday 7th September, and Saturday 28th September will be a busy day with a craft event at the former Kent Green Methodist Chapel in the day and an evening of song and music at Rode Heath Village Hall. Full details of these events can be found on pages 7 and 8.

Unfortunately, some people will turn to self destructive acts, taking dangerous substances to entertain themselves. You can read about Cheshire Constabulary's approach to illegal drugs on page 10.

In this issue, you can also check out what trips the Rode Runner Community Transport service is offering (pages 2 and 3), read about Parish Council activities (page 4), including its bid to get Mow Cop designated as an area of special value in the Local Plan (page 5) and read about the wildlife and historical value of our traditional orchards ... including contact details for anyone wishing to start a traditional orchard (pages 6 and 7)..

Parish Council News

New councillors...

The Parish Council has co-opted Rode Heath resident Dr David Somerville to fill the vacancy in the Rode Heath ward. David is a chartered scientist working in medical research (internationally recognised for his involvement in electrotherapies). The Scholar Green ward vacancy was filled by local chartered surveyor Andrew Johnson.

Mount Pleasant play provision ...

The Parish Council undertook a survey of all households in the Mount Pleasant ward in order to ascertain their thoughts on play provision.

The responses showed there is overwhelming satisfaction with the Church Street play area and that it caters well for the younger age range. For those who don't use it, the main reason is their children are too old. The second most common reason is that it is too far away, especially with banks to climb (this was mainly households living at The Bank area)

There was a large majority against play equipment on the village green from Mount Pleasant households and a small majority in favour from households in The Bank.

Community Litter Pickers

Litter picking equipment for loan ...

The Parish Council has obtained a stock of litter picking equipment that local groups can borrow for clean-up events. The equipment, funded by a grant from Cheshire East Council under the Government Community Clean-Up Scheme, includes "working on verge" traffic warning signs, cones, hi viz vests and gloves (vests and gloves in various sizes, for both children & adults) and litter pickers.

If anyone wants to borrow the equipment, please contact the Parish Clerk

A clear majority of all households with children, or visiting children, were against using Mount Pleasant village green.

The survey results indicated that the majority of households in Mount Pleasant are happy with existing facilities but that households in The Bank would prefer a site closer to them. Mow Cop residents were neutral on the matter.

The Parish Council considered the survey results and unanimously voted to reject proposals for play equipment on Mount Pleasant village green. The Council will consider the other issues raised by the results in the future, where they will be considered, along with other matters, as part of a parish wide Parish Council Business Plan.

CHESHIRE EAST COUNCIL'S LOCAL PLAN...

The Parish that the Council is keen to celebrate and protect the special character of Mow Cop.

As part of the Local Plan process, Cheshire East Council is proposing to designate some areas of Cheshire East as of special value (Local Landscape Designations). The southern end of the Mow Cop Ridge (the village and hill that is in Odd Rode Parish) was excluded from consideration for the proposed Peak Park Fringe Local Landscape Designation.

The Parish Council has put forward the case for including the village of Mow Cop and surrounding countryside in this designation. The Council has suggested an area from Woodcock's Well School, the headmaster's house and St Luke's Church... Victorian buildings of stone and slate which evoke a distinct Pennine character, to the village (again, dominated by buildings of stone and slate) should be included.

In the statement of significance for this LLD, Cheshire East Council have stated that, with regards to local distinctiveness and sense of place: "This is overlain by a strong local vernacular of stone and slate reflecting the local geology, evoking a distinct Pennine character" and "Stone walls emphasise the gradient of hill slopes."

BIODIVERSITY IN ODD RODE... ORCHARDS

Ecologically, traditional orchards resemble mini-parklands or wood pasture due to their combination of open-grown fruit trees, grassland and hedgerow boundaries or scrub. They are an important habitat for a wide range of species: for example, mammals such as bats; birds such as barn owls, woodpeckers, bullfinches, tree sparrows and thrushes; rare insects such as noble chafer and stag beetle; and plants such as mistletoe, as well as a range of lichens.

Orchard grassland often includes abundant wildflowers, and trees with veteran features, including rot holes, split bark and hollow trunks – beneficial for fungi and invertebrates – that may be subtly coloured with a range of lichens.

There are three Traditional orchards in Odd Rode, one is at a private residence in Scholar Green (0.16 hectares), one is at Little Moreton Hall (0.14 hectares) and one is at Rode Hall (0.06 hectares). There is also a relic orchard at Scholar Green (0.05 hectares).

The orchard at little Moreton Hall includes a medlar tree. The Tudors used medlar fruit to make a jelly.

A traditional orchard reveals gnarled old trunks of fruit and nut trees bursting with blossoms and young leaves in springtime, with wildflowers and insects populating summer's long grass, and foraging wildlife attracted by autumn's fallen fruit.

A seventeenth-century survey of Rode Hall described 'orchards, gardens and courts within the Greene before ye hall'.

The walled kitchen garden was built in the early 1700s to provide fruit and vegetables for the estate. The Victorian head gardener's cottage is built into the southern wall. There are traces of original chimneys built into the wall supporting espaliered fruit trees, located there in order to maintain an optimum temperature for year-round growth. One of these chimneys has been restored. The garden is still in use today and includes traditional and exotic varieties of vegetables, and fruit bushes, some of which are used to make jams and chutneys for sale in the hall's tearooms.

Traditional Orchards are defined, for priority habitat purposes, as groups of fruit and nut trees planted on vigorous rootstocks at low densities in permanent grassland; and managed in a low intensity way. Cobnut plots are also included.

The minimum size of a Traditional Orchard is defined as five trees with crown edges less than 20m apart. However the potential biological and genetic interest of sites with fewer trees, such as relict orchards and individual trees within gardens, is noted. Where appropriate these should be considered as potential restoration sites. It is recognised that other sites which fall outside the definition, such as organic bush orchards and fruit collections in walled gardens may also have biodiversity value, as well as historic, cultural and genetic importance.

Orchards were once an important part of the Cheshire landscape. The county supported many orchards and produced a wide range of fruit, with each area having its own speciality or distinctive fruit variety. Most older farms, smallholdings and cottages still have remains of orchard trees either in the garden hedgerow or in grassy paddocks set close to the house. In recent times the number and variety of orchards in Cheshire has declined. However, the loss is far greater than fruit growing alone, along with trees have gone traditional crafts, wildlife havens and landscape features.

“In the early autumn we loved the misty harvest mornings when the trees, laden with their luscious, ripe fruit gave up their treasure ... the smoky smell of rich autumn earth and the pungent perfume of the ripe fruit will warm my memory forever.”

Muriel Berry in Orchards of Cheshire.

Together with its members and volunteers, Cheshire Wildlife Trust is committed to enabling wildlife to survive and thrive across Cheshire cheshirewildlifetrust.org.uk

The Cheshire Orchard Project was launched in the early 1990s, reflecting as it does a groundswell of feeling for local distinctiveness. A major landmark was the production in 1995 of a book edited by the Cheshire Federation of Women's Institutes entitled 'Orchards of Cheshire' (ISBN 10 1873727062 and 13 9781873727065), a rich compendium of knowledge and memories, of traditions and customs compiled by a wide range of local people and organisations. The book is an outstanding success story and has fuelled the search for 'lost' local varieties of apples and pears.

The Cheshire Orchard Project is coordinated by the Cheshire Landscape Trust and uses the expertise of TLG Orchards to propagate old Cheshire varieties of apple trees at their specialist nursery near Nantwich, in the heart of rural Cheshire. Thirty-four new orchards have been planted by the Trust since 1994. Cheshire Landscape Trust and TLG Orchards have run workshops, entitled 'Starting Out With Orchards' and 'Pruning for Beginners', to help people learn about fruit trees and orchards. It is hoped these will be repeated annually. To enquire about further workshops, or to ask general advice, please contact Cheshire Landscape Trust on 01244 674193.

Orchard Network Launched in April 2010 the Orchard Network website acts as a signpost to existing national and regional resources, covering a range of topics from national and local Habitat Action Plans, to orchard management and planning issues. Produced on behalf of the Traditional Orchard Habitat Action Plan the site highlights the work of a number of different organisations all working to conserve Traditional Orchards. ## DRUGS ...

Effective policing is one of the most powerful tools in dealing with drugs, but enforcement in isolation will not achieve a lasting solution to the problem. There are no easy solutions to the complex drug problem but Cheshire Constabulary is committed to tackling the problem of drugs by working with all interested parties, whether they be partner agencies, communities, businesses or voluntary groups.

Our strategy seeks to combine prevention, education, harm minimisation and treatment with our own enforcement responsibilities. Our challenge is to achieve this whilst ensuring that we continue to deliver the high standards of policing that Cheshire deserves.

The Constabulary's approach to drug related issues involves both strong enforcement and active education programmes. We seek to tackle the supply of drugs through enforcement and work with our partners on the Drug Action teams to address demand through a combination of Criminal Justice Interventions and education initiatives.

The Misuse of Drugs Act 1971 categorises drugs under three classes; A, B and C. It is an offence to:

- Possess a controlled substance unlawfully
- Possess a controlled substance with intent to supply it
- Supply or offer to supply a controlled drug (even if it is given away for free)
- Allow a house, flat or office to be used by people taking drugs.

Penalties for possession of drugs range from up to 2 years imprisonment and an unlimited fine for class C drugs, up to 5 years imprisonment and an unlimited fine for class B drugs and up to 7 years imprisonment and an unlimited fine for class A drugs,

Penalties for dealing in drugs range from up to 14 years imprisonment and an unlimited fine for class C drugs, up to 14 years imprisonment and an unlimited fine for class B drugs and up to life imprisonment and an unlimited fine for class A drugs,

Class A drugs Ecstasy, LSD, heroin, cocaine, crack, magic mushrooms, amphetamines (if prepared for injection).

Class B drugs Amphetamines, Cannabis, Methylphenidate (Ritalin), Pholcodine.

Class C drugs Tranquilisers, some painkillers, Gamma hydroxybutyrate (GHB), Ketamine.

ANSWERS TO THE MINI QUIZ : 1 Jack Simcock, who lived most of his life in Primitive Street, Mow Cop. 2 It is 93.5 miles long from Derwent Mouth (junction of Staffordshire & Worcestershire Canal) to Preston Brook (junction of Bridgewater Canal) 3 It is a Woodcock ... this thick-bodied, pigeon-sized bird with a long bill is sometimes called the "snipe of the woods." 4 It was in Hall Green opposite the Bleeding Wolf, on the site now occupied by 106 Congleton Road North.
